CONFESSION TELLS STORY

How Woman Was Trained from Street Car Described

CANTON — (United Press) — The man brought here from Wooster, after admitting a part in the slaying of Florence Nitzman, after renewed questioning by police late Wednesday night, changed his original confession made to police at Wooster and implicated a companion, who he says, actually committed the crime.

According to the suspect, who says he is Joseph Pierce, 31, Detroit, and another man described as being about his own age and of Italian descent, came to Canton on the same freight train. His story indicates the two men followed the girl in a street car which they boarded with her.

When the girl got off the car near her home they followed and attacked her. To prevent the girl from screaming, Pierce told police his companion choked her while he was holding her by the waist.

THROWN IN CREEK
Later when they found the girl was dead, they carried the body to a nearby creek, weighted her under garments with stones and dropped the lifeless form in the water.

According to Pierce, his companion immediately boarded a freight train in the local yards and departed while Pierce remained in Canton until Tuesday when he went to Wooster.

Wednesday the suspect was taken to a hospital in Wooster, after he had collapsed in a restaurant. Deep scratches on his arms and legs aroused the suspicion of Chief Litter, who questioned the man as to the possible connection with the Canton crime.

The repudiated confession was made on arrival of Canton authorities.

Pierce was taken to the scene of the murder and later to the morgue where he collapsed and was removed to jail.

No formal charge has been filed against Pierce.

Death Rehearsal
To Be Conducted
By State Today

NEVADA STATE PRISON, Carson City, Nev. — (Associated Press) — The first lethal gas execution in which two men have been sentenced to die Friday morning was to be given a rehearsal in the death chamber in the prison yard late today.

A set will be the victim of the execution and the experts supervising the execution will endeavor to learn how quickly the gas dies and when the arrangements for releasing the hydrocyanic vapor afterward are satisfactory.

Only the warden and the experts will view the rehearsal.

Prison guards sent in their resignations to the warden today. They said they were unwilling to have any part in the execution.

The men who are to die Friday are Thomas Russell, American born Mexican, convicted of killing his Indian sweetheart.

The necessary precautions have been taken the warden said today, to insure the safety of executioners, physicians and spectators. No gas masks will be worn. Once the gas is pumped out of the death chamber, officials explained, it would flow harmlessly over the prison walls.

Warden Denver S. Dickerson said today that arrangements were complete. He will keep the other prisoners locked in their cell houses during the execution. The witnesses will view it thru a window. The condemned men have been told the general procedure.

CITY WILL TEAR
UP RAILWAYResult of Dispute at Akron Over
Street Car Service

AKRON — (Associated Press) — What is regarded as the most momentous step in the present dispute between the city and Northern Ohio Traction and Light Co., over the question of a rate of fare, was the announcement this morning that the city will begin immediately to tear up the tracks of the traction company within the city limits.

The tracks will be torn up first on West Market street in order that the city can go ahead with plans for repaving this thoroughfare. The company's share of the cost will be assessed against it if it fails to do its own portion of the paving, it was announced by Mayor D. C. Rybolt.

Repaving of the street is being done in order that a suitable main route for busses can be furnished.

Simultaneously with the city's announcement came one from the citizens' committee of 100 that they are prepared to reopen negotiations with both the city and traction company for a new franchise suitable to each party. The traction company has expressed its assent to the negotiations but the city is expected to refuse. Members of the committee plan to submit their new franchise to the people thru a referendum of the city fails to negotiate with them.

3 ARE HELD UNDER
MANN ACTCharges Preferred Against 2
Men, Woman at Toledo

TOLEDO — (United Press) — Two men and a woman were held for federal grand jury investigation charged with violating the Mann act in bringing two 15-year-old girls from Detroit to Toledo, following a hearing by United States Commissioner Calver yesterday. They were Zevetco Alecoff, under bond of $10,000; Mrs. Carrie Alecoff, $5,000 bond, and Steve Pelofski, $5,000 bond.

The two girls said their names were Genevieve Grazbowski, and Lucille Roche. In a sworn statement made by federal authorities, the girls said they had met Mrs. Alecoff in a Detroit restaurant where she had told them of the fine clothes and money that could be obtained in Toledo.

The husband and Steve Pelofski are said to have brought the girls to Toledo in an automobile. Here they were arrested by federal authorities following a complaint from juvenile officers in Detroit under whom care the young girls had been.

$10,000 IS DESIRED BY

Conducting Fund Campaign

$1,500 IS ALREADY PLEDGED

Speakers Outline Work in the Past and Needs for the Future

With fifteen hundred dollars pre-subscribed Wednesday night, the Family Welfare Association campaign for $10,000 got away to a splendid start, at its organization dinner in the Hotel Argonne.

Two hundred were present. Four teams began their work Thursday morning with the expectation of cleaning up their quotas of $2,500 each by Friday night.

Rev. E. Bruce Jacobs is at the head of the organization.

Eight speakers at the banquet praised the work of the Family Welfare Association and the work in particular of Mrs. Irene Mills Jackson, director. Ernest M. Botkins, chairman of the Board of Directors of the association, presided at the banquet.

Former Mayor Harold Cunningham, speaking of "The Family Welfare Association as an Official Relief Society of the City," outlined the work which has been done, and stated vehemently, "When a city of 50,000 people can subscribe only $200 to the great cause represented by the Family Welfare Association, it is a moral obligation to the people of Lima to subscribe the full quota of $10,000."

He showed how Mrs. Jackson made out warrants for the entrance of the society's work centers to the infirmary, authorized pauper burials, notifying relatives at the same time, provided transportation to stranded persons here, dispensed the outdoor relief fund in distributing coal, food and other necessities. He said it was remarkable how much work was done with depleted funds.

EMPLOYMENT AID
R. D. Rohm, employment manager of the Lima Locomotive Works, showed how the society's work embraced the task of getting jobs for men whose families are in need.

He asked her to send him four men at 11 a. m. one day, and at 1 p. m. he had 11 applicants she had sent. Compared to the size of the city, Mrs. Jackson's work was unusually good, for the amount of money she had, he affirmed.

Chief of Police T. A. Lanker declared he did not know what the police department would do without the aid of the Family Welfare Association. Every female prisoner is interviewed by Mrs. Jackson, as he department has no matron or policewoman. Nine out of ten male prisoners leave families to be cared for by the association. The Family Welfare Association has reduced the complaints that police mistreated prisoners, especially female prisoners.

Miss Ruth Seymour of the Y. W. C. A., agreed with the preceding speakers that the work which is being done is remarkable in its scope and amount. It has arranged, thru its association with the Travelers' Aid Society, to meet lone girls, and to assist them in getting comfortably and well located.

G. O. P. DELEGATES TO BE NAMED

Allen-co Entitled to 17 Representatives at Meet

Allen-co will send 17 delegates to the Republican state convention at Columbus June 24 and 25. The size of the delegation is based on the vote cast in the county for Carmel Thompson, gubernatorial candidate in 1922.

For each 500 votes the county is entitled to one delegate and one alternate. Delegates will be elected at the April primaries. Call for the convention was sent out Thursday by Major Charles W. Montgomery, chairman of the G. O. P. state central committee.

The delegates will nominate the Republican candidates for presidential electors, formulate the Republican party's state platform and transact such other party business as arises for convention action. County central committee may divide their counties into districts, each of which shall elect one delegate, or may have all the delegates elected from the county at large. No decision has been made on the plan to be followed. J. O. Mantague, county chairman, said. Nomination papers for delegates must be filed with the county boards of election not later than February 29.

FIVE ILLDeath Results from Dinner
Served at Steubenville

STEUDEVILLE — (Associated Press) — One man is dead and five others are reported to be in a dying condition at the Ohio Valley hospital here, the result of eating spiced sausage made from uncooked meat.

Dr. J. Caropietti, 39, foreign merchant, is dead. His death yesterday was at first thought to have been due to typhoid fever.

Later four other prominent foreign citizens who had been guests at a dinner at the Caropietti home Tuesday night were taken seriously ill and removed to the hospital, an investigation revealing that all were suffering from a similar ailment which was diagnosed as trichinosis, a worm disease that attacks the muscles.

Those reported in a critical condition are: August Malone, 48; Cyrus Skettino, 34; Dr. V. B. DiLoreto, 40, Albert Yanzow, 35; John Cocanelli, 35; all local business and professional men.

Dr. J. D. Goehring, pathologist of the Rochester, Minn., clinic, made the diagnosis of the cases after the death of Caropietti. It was learned today that Caropietti gave a dinner at his home Tuesday night and uncooked pork in spiced sausage form was the chief delicacy.

EXPLAINED BY E. L. DOHENY

Albert Fall is Released from Subpoena to Testify

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — E. L. Doheny, the California oil operator, has notified the senate oil committee that instead of the $250,000 he recently estimated his interests had paid William McAdoo's law firm, the amount actually paid so far is $150,000, including an annual fee of $25,000 to McAdoo himself.

In a letter on the subject sent to Chairman Lenroot, Doheny added that none of the money, or any other payments ever had been given to the McAdoo firm with regard to "any matter, relating to the contracts and leases which have been under investigation by your committee."

The committee decided not to try to question Fall further, because it thought that if he was compelled to testify, he might claim immunity from prosecution in court.

The action of the committee was taken on advice of Atlee Pomerene and Silas Strawn, the special counsel selected by President Coolidge, but not yet confirmed by the senate.

One ground on which Fall last week refused to answer the committee's questions, was that he might incriminate himself.

Acting upon the advice of Pomerene and Strawn, Senator Walsh of Montana, chief investigator, proposed a motion to the committee in executive session, stating that as there was a chance of Fall escaping legal prosecution the subpoena which would have required his presence before the committee tomorrow morning be vacated. This motion was adopted without objection.

HUSBAND SHOT BY
JEALOUS WIFEAlleged Triangle Results in Tragedy at Fremont

FREMONT, Ohio — (United Press) — After telling neighbors for several days that there would be two funerals in the block shortly unless her husband discontinued dividing his love with another woman, Mrs. Anna Krugh, 30, probably fatally shot her husband, Earl Krugh, 30, at their home here last night, one bullet entering his neck and ranged downward into his lung. A second struck a rib.

After the shooting Mrs. Krugh lost courage when she attempted to turn the gun upon herself, she said.

Krugh, after treatment here by Dr. S. McKinney, was rushed to a hospital in Toledo, where little hope is held for his recovery. Mrs. Krugh, on the verge of hysteria, is guarded at the jail here.

"I love every bone in his body," she screamed as she waved the gun menacingly at neighbors attracted by the report of the gun. "If I can't have him, no other woman is going to get him."

LOSERS COURAGE
"I intended to kill Earl, then kill myself, too, so we'd both be together," she explained later at the jail. "I was determined he'd never live to divide his affections with that other woman. But after I shot Earl, I weakened; I didn't have the courage to pull the trigger as I pressed the gun to my head."

Krugh, after being shot twice, staggered across the alley to the home of his mother. "I'm shot, Anna, shoot me," he said. "Call a doctor."

Due to his serious condition, Krugh was rushed to Toledo by automobile thru driving snowstorm last night. The exposure and loss of blood, coupled with the nature of his wounds, doctors regarded as exceedingly harmful to Krugh.

Krugh, who has been living apart from his wife, just across the alley, with his mother, for the last two weeks, was called to his home by his wife about 6 o'clock, on the pretext of having him fix a leaky water pipe. The fatal quarrel followed.

FLAG EPISODE
RESENTED AT
WASHINGTONEmbassy's Refusal to Honor
Wilson Causes Stir

INDIGNATION RUNS HIGH

Recall of Envoy Likely to be Demanded of Berlin

WASHINGTON — (United Press) — Representations by the state department to Berlin, the recall or resignation of Ambassador Wedfeldt and "scrapping" of all relief measures for Germany, are likely sequels to the German blunder in ordering its embassy here not to half mast its flag in honor of Woodrow Wilson.

Both the state department and embassy today refused to discuss the matter in any way, but it was learned in well informed quarters that the incident is not entirely closed.

It was learned also that the Berlin government sent forceful instructions to Wedfeldt not to participate under any circumstances, "officially" in the Wilson mourning.

When Ambassador Jusserand of France, dean of the diplomatic corps, asked all other diplomats to contribute towards a wreath, Wedfeldt did so out of his personal funds.

BERLIN ORDERS
The orders from Berlin were in reply to a message from Wedfeldt that Mr. Wilson's death was inevitable and a recommendation that the embassy here should take part in official mourning. Berlin's flat rejection of this recommendation left no loophole, except to state that Wedfeldt could participate in his personal capacity.

This, however, did not permit the German ambassador to half mast the flag. He may, however, resign as a sacrifice to his foreign office blunder, thus permitting Berlin to save its face.

In congress and among American Legion men, indignation still ran high. Congress is being appealed to by various organizations and spokesmen to appropriate money for relief of Germans in the Ruhr, and to authorize a big loan to Germany. Even Mr. Wilson was appealed to, former Ambassador Gerard announced a few days before the former president's death, to help German professors and intellectuals.

All projected relief measures have suffered and if any are passed at all, it will be after bitter opposition.

VIEWERS IN GERMANY
BERLIN — (United Press) — The German government did its best today to convince everyone concerned that no ill will towards the United States was intended by the flag incident in Washington, where the German emblem was not at first displayed at half mast in honor of Woodrow Wilson.

"It was a plain blunder," one hears on every side today.

German government officials make Ambassador Wedfeldt the "goat," but foreign office spokesmen merely shrug their shoulders, when asked if the minister to Washington will resign or be recalled.

The Vorwaerts is extremely bitter towards both Wedfeldt and the government, accusing the latter of gross cowardice and declares the people are furious at the government as a result.

Foreign Minister Stresemann explained the "misunderstanding" to American Ambassador Houghton. It was learned incidentally that Wedfeldt's original telegram suggested official condolences with regard to Wilson's passing and a wreath from Germany for the grave.

The government instructed the ambassador to take no official steps but to do personally when he desired.

Wedfeldt apparently interpreted this as conveying government disapproval of any move of respect or condolence and acted accordingly.

WILSON'S BODY TO STAY AT CAPITAL

Permanent Tomb May Be Built in Washington Cathedral

WIDOW TO SELECT THE SPOT

Decision as to Final Resting Place Not Yet Made

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — Wrapped in the glory of death, Woodrow Wilson has found sanctuary in the towering arches of the Washington cathedral, as claimed by his countrymen and the world.

He was laid to his eternal rest in the silent vault with only the solemn, simple rites of Christian service, as was his wish, often spoken to the sorrowing widow who today sought again to take on life's burdens with an aching sense of loss in her heart.

Before her still is the task of deciding where shall be the final resting place of her beloved husband. For months, probably, he will lie in the vault to which he was committed yesterday just as night came slowly over the nation's capital, but a greater memorial will one day be reared for him, to show the honor in which men had given thought to the place where he would rest in death and it will be within the District of Columbia that his ultimate tomb will be set. That has already been decided by Mrs. Wilson in accordance with his wish, with the place where the tomb shall be erected is still to be selected.

MEMORIAL PLANS
Above the vault where lies the casket that contains his body, the cathedral structure has reached a point in building where the transepts, north and south, are next to be constructed. The north transept, by tradition in England and the United States, is the transept of statesmen, where those may lie who gave great service to their countrymen in the civil walks of national life. Plans have been formed for the building of an adequate memorial to Woodrow Wilson in that transept of the cathedral beneath which he now rests. It would be placed just where the massive northern wall of the nave and the western bulk of the transept will join.

As the plan now runs, the tomb would be built into the wall of the cathedral itself and the casket so tenderly placed yesterday in the chapel vault would be enshrined in the stone enclosure forever. Within the transept on the main floor of the cathedral, a fitting memorial would be set as the inner face of the tomb.

WIDOW TO DECIDE
Mrs. Wilson has not as yet assented to this plan. She has agreed with her husband that, since he lived for eight long years in Washington as president, and came from the White House only to make his home in the city, it is in Washington, or at least within the lines of the District of Columbia, that he should be buried. So far as closest friends are aware, however, she has not as yet had the time or the courage to select the spot.

Many projects for a suitable memorial to Woodrow Wilson have been discussed within the last few days by those who were his friends and followers in the days of his leadership. There are many divergent views among them, which have not yet shown signs of crystallizing into a definite plan. Senators from his native state of Virginia have urged that his body should lie on Virginia soil, while from Princeton has come a claim that it should go back in death to the scholarly seclusion of his early triumphs. Perhaps there will come from all of this discussion a movement to erect to his memory at some appropriate place a memorial that is not also a tomb, as the Washington monument and the Lincoln memorial mark in Washington the respect and admiration of the nation for great men who are buried elsewhere.

But that is a question which only time and the development of opinion can answer. Until a decision is reached, the man who led the American people through the great war and who played a masterful part in the shaping of world history will sleep in peace where he lies today with naught to mark his resting place but a marble tablet saying that here lies Woodrow Wilson, 28th president of the United States.

$30,000 WORTH OF LIQUOR IS SEIZED

PHILADELPHIA — Philadelphia's "biggest bootlegger" was raided early today and liquor valued at more than $30,000 seized.

A few hours after Detective Butler had charged 100 city detectives with treachery, graft, and inefficiency and told them he knew of the existence of a "bootleg king" with a fabulous stock, police raided an old warehouse in the downtown section and placed its store of liquor under guard.

The storehouse, police said, was rented by Jacob Carlton, formerly a Philadelphia brewer, but at present a resident of Atlantic City. Carlton declared that the entire stock was in his possession before the passage of the prohibition amendment and that his possession of it was legal. He said he would come to Philadelphia today to protect the action of the police.

RICHMOND, Va. — A plan to make Monticello, Thomas Jefferson's home near Charlottesville, Va., a memorial that will embody active and continuous service for the "preservation and spread of American ideals" has been worked out by the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation which is conducting a nation wide campaign for funds.

The plan calls for the selection each year of three American citizens judged to have rendered the greatest service to humanity in science, education and government who would be designated "guests of the nation." They will be entitled to occupy Monticello, each for a period of three months as the central figure in an educational program of national scope, directed by the foundation in cooperation with influential agencies for public enlightenment in all the states of the union.

WOMAN SLAIN IN POLITICAL WAR

Former Mayor of Louisiana Town is Bullet Victim

DAUGHTER BADLY WOUNDED

Merchant is Also Killed in the Gun Battle

OPELOUSAS, La. — (Associated Press) — Mrs. Roland W. Clark, former mayor of Palmetto, La., was shot to death; Louis Myer, merchant of that place, was fatally wounded, and Wilma, 18-year-old daughter of Mrs. Clark, was seriously wounded in a pistol battle at Palmetto, Tuesday night. Cleon Clark, 19, son of the dead woman, who also participated in the shooting, was not wounded.

Mrs. Clark was killed by Myer after she had shot him twice. He died late last night in a New Orleans hospital. After Myer had fatally wounded Mrs. Clark he was said by witnesses to have continued firing, one of the bullets striking the Clark girl, inflicting a serious wound. A bullet from the girl's pistol struck Myer in the head, and a load of shot from a shotgun, said to have been fired by her brother, Cleon, found lodgment in the merchant's leg.

According to advices received here from Palmetto, the shooting was said to have grown out of a political controversy, which started several years ago when Mrs. Clark was elected mayor of Palmetto over a candidate supported by Myer. In a primary held recently Mrs. Clark was defeated for re-election by A. A. Isaacson by one vote which Mrs. Clark was reported to have charged was obtained by Myer sending to Port Arthur, La., for his brother to go to Palmetto and vote for Isaacson.

Witnesses testified at the inquest that Mrs. Clark after questioning Myer about alleged disparaging remarks the woman charged, he had made about her daughter, she drew a pistol and shot Myer. He clutched with her and she broke loose, both began firing. Mrs. Clark was shot five times, Myer, witnesses said, then turned his pistol on the daughter.

PLANS WORKED OUT FOR JEFFERSON MEMORIAL

RICHMOND, Va. — A plan to make Monticello, Thomas Jefferson's home near Charlottesville, Va., a memorial that will embody active and continuous service for the "preservation and spread of American ideals" has been worked out by the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation which is conducting a nation wide campaign for funds.

The plan calls for the selection each year of three American citizens judged to have rendered the greatest service to humanity in science, education and government who would be designated "guests of the nation." They will be entitled to occupy Monticello, each for a period of three months as the central figure in an educational program of national scope, directed by the foundation in cooperation with influential agencies for public enlightenment in all the states of the union.

PROWLER REPORT
Mrs. Fritz Keller 33 N. Jackson-st. reported to police Wednesday evening about 7 p. m. there had been a man seen prowling around the house. Officer Hamilton was detailed to the case, but found no suspects.

Y. M. BAKER DEAD
COLUMBUS — Lorenzo M. Baker, founder of the Baker art gallery here, is dead at his home. He was almost 90 years old.

"I am near 90 years, but I feel as young as I did at 20. I take a cupful of Bulgarian Tea once or twice a week. It keeps me healthy and strong and makes me feel young again," said H. H. Von Shlick, manufacturer of Bulgarian Herb Tea.

To break up a bad cold you must take a cupful hot at bedtime. Bad colds often turn into influenza or pneumonia and thousands die every year.

Sick people should be careful not to use harsh, drastic or habit-forming drugs.

My Bulgarian Tea is compounded of the freshest and purest herbs and is positively harmless.

Just remember I have made this tea for sick people for over twenty-five years and today millions are using it. Ask your druggist for my genuine Bulgarian Tea with my name on it in the red and yellow box.—Adv.

$10,000 a Year After Second Year

What B. H. Did—You Can Do!

B. H. started his own business under an exclusive permanent license from us, manufacturing from our product a finished article that sells readily and steadily.

Within two years, his income has gone over the $10,000 mark, and his original investment has multiplied itself several times over. Within the last seven years, approximately 250 others have done as well—none, perhaps, more progressive or with more ability and ambition than you.

Sales in large volume are assured because the product is known everywhere by practically everyone. Several millions have been spent in advertising, and success and experience justify continued and consistent advertising efforts.

Available territory is limited. Lima is still open. If interested, your plant and equipment will mean an investment of from twenty to twenty-five thousand dollars.

With this in hand or some ready cash and sufficient backing, here is an unusual opportunity for a man, morally and financially responsible, with business experience and ambition. Reference expected. Our reference, any bank in Chicago.

See you are interested and we will give you further details as once and later arrange for an interview.

UNDERWORLD NIGHTS

By ALEXANDER HERMAN
NO. 10—WITH THE SMALL-TIMERS

THEY WERE ALL PLAYING CARDS

The Underworld is a place of many spheres of influence. It is composed of many sects, of men of different stations, of many nationalities.

Each type is distinctive; each technique different.

In Greenwich Village, just around the corner from a long line of art-deco places frequented by out-of-towners who want to see New York is a short street, on which dwells the Italian mob of the greatest power.

The hangout of its master minds is in a little grocery shop, where the finest oil and table luxuries are sold in the front part of the store, and the more expensive bootleg liquor in the back.

The owner of the place was not in when we called. He had just been arrested while hauling a $75,000 liquor load across the state line. His brother was running the shop, and he wasn't very friendly.

A false move, or a false word, would have brought a quick squelching. For each of the men in the little place was heeled.

Later in the night, when we passed the place again, we saw a long row of limousines from the fashionable uptown lined before the shop. Their owners were inside getting supplies. But they did not know that they were getting their stuff from men who probably have them marked for further business some day.

But the mob proper hangs out in a little coffee shop. Just a store, with sawdust on the floor, round tables, reminiscent of the old days in the back part of a saloon, and a little bar where coffee and soft drinks were served.

For liquor is reserved for the leaders; except on special occasion. The men were little more than boys—small, lithe and shifty-eyed. They were all playing cards—pinochle, for the most part. They invited us to join them when they found out that we were blot.

They were a good bunch, and kindly. But when ordered on a job, they are most relentless in their work. Everyone is an expert with a razor or stiletto. And each is ready to use it on the slightest provocation. It's his chief stock in trade.

Women and Children Crowd Court to Hear Testimony

Testimony of sensational character, embodying a tale of misdeeds on the part of Lester Miller, Amador-tan farmer, was recited from the witness stand by Mrs. Tessie Miller, in trial of the divorce action in common pleas court Thursday.

SECRET PACT IS CHARGED

Signed by Wilson and Clemenceau, Lloyd George Says

DENIED BY FRENCH PREMIER

Causes Tremendous Furor in British Isles

LONDON — (United Press) — A tremendous furor swept the British Isles and the continent today on the heels of a charge by ex-premier Lloyd George that Woodrow Wilson and Clemenceau during peace conference days fixed up a secret pact behind his back whereby the American president agreed to occupation of the Rhineland by French troops for 15 years.

A sensation such as the Teapot Dome oil scandal stirred in the United States involved one after another of the prominent figures who helped make the Versailles treaty. The French and British foreign offices were busy as beehives; the former issued a flat denial of Lloyd George's charge; the latter put the matter up to the former prime minister for further explanation.

From Paris came an interview with "The Times" in which Clemenceau denied Lloyd George's assertion. Andre Tardieu, who played a prominent part in peace conference proceedings did not know of the pact. The British press today printed at length everything Washington, New York, Paris and London had to say in connection with the alleged secret pact.

Meanwhile, Lloyd George was pressed to produce the pact, or at least to answer the indignant denial of the French foreign office. He promised a statement later today. What happened, in a nutshell, was this:

The French foreign office intends to publish a series of "yellow papers" or a "yellow book" dealing with the making of the peace of Versailles and sent Great Britain proofs, asking permission to publish them. Those were sent to Lloyd George "out of courtesy" because in conjunction with President Wilson and Premier Clemenceau, he had been concerned in a discussion of the matter.

The "yellow book" apparently was to be France's apology for occupation of the Rhineland and Ruhr. It was to show that Wilson and Lloyd George agreed.

Whether or not this is what the "yellow book" proofs contained, Lloyd George, upon receiving them, coincident with the death of Wilson stated to newspaper correspondents that the secret pact, agreeing to occupation of the Rhine had been made while he was away from Paris.

The British foreign office has asked Lloyd George to reply to the French denials of his charge and announced it will probably give consent of the MacDonald government to publication of the "yellow book."

PARIS — (United Press) — Brilling savagely one minute, gruffly good natured the next, old Georges Clemenceau, "père la victoire" gave the lie direct to a statement credited to Lloyd George, in an interview in the London Chronicle to the effect that "the Tiger" and Woodrow Wilson signed a secret pact during their conference at Versailles.

"I never signed a secret treaty with anybody. I cannot understand Lloyd George's object in saying so," Clemenceau growled. Then the veteran old statesman of France laughed in his white mustache.

"Why," he exclaimed, gesturing expressively with his gloved hands, "let anybody show me any secret treaty signed by me and I'll engage to pay all the reparations myself."

Clemenceau declared the affair "impossible."

"Evidence," he said, "Lloyd George didn't reflect that Wilson was the only man who could not have signed a secret treaty, he was dependent on congress."

"He repeatedly reminded us of that during the negotiations. Besides, what aim could a secret treaty have."

"It would have been futile. Was it concerned with occupation of the Rhineland? You cannot occupy such a region and hide your troops. Consequently, such a treaty, had one existed, would have been public property quickly."

CINCINNATI — Two witnesses of a struggle in an automobile near Duck creek on the night of January 29, which resulted in the death of John Mazzola, police say, tend to strengthen the theory that Mazzola was practically kidnapped by his slaver and taken to the lonely spot; that he resisted the efforts of his companion, Halton L. ## REFUSES TO DISMISS CHARGES AGAINST MAYOR

TOLEDO — Federal Judge John M. Killita at the opening of this morning overruled a motion by Rudolph D. Niles, attorney for Adolph Edgar, former mayor of Tiffin, and Charles Street to dismiss the charges of possession of liquor against them.

The court's ruling caused considerable surprise as it was predicted here following the session of court yesterday that the jury would never get the Edgar and Street cases.

Immediately following the ruling George E. Reed, assistant district attorney, began the arguments for the government.

40 ARE ILL FROM FROZEN TOXIN

"Schick Test" Scandal Sweeps Two Eastern Schools

BOSTON — (United Press) — Twenty-five students at the McElwain school, Bridgewater, innoculated with frozen "toxin anti-toxin" have become infected and are ill at their homes, it was learned Thursday.

With 19 students already ill at Concord academy, Concord, the treatments appeared rapidly to be assuming the proportions of a scandal.

Doctors are making a feverish investigation as reports of additional cases came in.

Thirty-three pupils were innoculated at the McElwain school Tuesday, school authorities announced. The innoculations were made by Dr. Arthur W. Carr, whose daughter Nancy was one of the students made ill.

The students have been ordered to remain in bed for a month. They are suffering from high temperatures and the innoculated arms are swollen to three times normal size.

Officials of the state department of health are investigating the cases. They do not believe permanent incapacity will result to any of the victims.

In Concord it is believed all the 19 students made ill from the faulty serum will recover.

The fact the serum had been frozen and thawed is considered largely responsible for the serious results that followed its administration, although physicians admitted that not all its activities are understood thoroughly.

The treatment was originated by Dr. Bela Schick, Austrian scientist, as part of the "Schick test."

Dr. Schick was here with Dr. William R. Parks, New York, investigating the cases.

"This experience has taught us," Dr. Parks said, "to avoid using a product that has been frozen and to adopt certain changes in the vaccine which we believe will make it free from any possibility of harm."

Schick and physicians who visited the sick children, said illness of the students was due to the fact that "the diphtheria vaccine was frozen in the recent cold spell."

BINGHAM SEEKING INFORMATION

Tours Larger Cities Bent on Learning About Codes

COMMISSION WAITS ADVICE

Civic Problems May be Taken up at Next Meeting

City Manager C. A. Bingham was in Indianapolis and Columbus Wednesday and Thursday, investigating pending issues which are to come to a head soon in commission meeting. City hall employees are ignorant of his mission but from authoritative sources it was reported he is investigating the proposed municipal electrical code, liability insurance on motor bus, commercial transportation lines and curb markets.

Manager Bingham's activities for a drastic electrical code to eliminate fire hazards and assure building conformity with the state fire laws and the National Fire Underwriters' association has reached the stage where commissioners placed the burden for the enactment of legislation on his shoulders.

Electrical installation ordinances enacted by other cities are on file in his office, but to make the proposed measure for Lima so drastic that no loop holes are offered, Manager Bingham is said to have conferred with state fire officials at Columbus on standards to be eliminated and regulations to be complied with, especially in public buildings in congested areas.

Protection of the public in event of accidents while passengers in public motor bus conveyances or taxicabs has resolved into a showdown here with Manager Bingham insisting on liability bonds of $750 each from taxi drivers as required in the municipal license code.

Other cities, he claimed previous to his trip, have $10,000 liability bonds. Commissioners defeated his efforts to draft such legislation here after taxi operators protested Bingham favors such legislation and it is believed he is obtaining all information possible on the city's prerogative in event taxi cab companies disregard the chauffeur's liability bond.

Commissioners leaned toward the suggestion by Charles H. Morrill, city huckster, for a curb market and in response to their demands for an investigation report on alleged price gouging at the city market, Manager Bingham is said to be obtaining information for a report Monday night preparatory to commission's action.

Commissioners stated they would wait until Manager Bingham and Solicitor Landis to report before acting on complaints of hucksters that the city market is a menace instead of a benefit to the city.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over RHEUMATISM

Has Also Proven Remarkably Successful in Severe Cases of Rheumatic Neuritis

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allen's, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery thru the newspapers. He has therefore instructed all druggists to dispense Allen's with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment.—Adv.

FIRE FORCE CUT AT DELPHOS
Volunteer Department to Have 15 Men Instead of 25
GROTHOUSE REMAINS CHIEF
Reduction Made Possible Thru New Equipment

DELPHOS — Reduction of the active members of the Delphos volunteer fire department was made Wednesday night at a meeting in the City hall. The ranks were cut from 25 to 15 active members, the latter number including the chief and engineer. New officers were elected, and Frank Grothouse was re-elected chief by acclamation for a term of two years.

Public business was left over for the adjournment to discharge, and adjourned immediately after the meeting was called, a move for disbanding was in order, and the chief read the list of those to be eliminated.

Chief Grothouse appreciated the cooperation of the firemen have shown in the city in general is indebted to them for the time you have spent in the service of the department. I am sure that they are not on the new list of those to be eliminated, and that has been done in the past.

The volunteer department held members meeting for almost thirty years. John H. Smith, Sr., was given a rising vote of thanks for his work as treasurer of the organization for more than twenty years.

Mr. Weger was appointed temporary chairman, and S. H. Wamhoff, secretary while the new officers were elected. They are as follows: Frank Grothouse, chief; Gus Weger, assistant chief; William Scherger, foreman; John H. Smith, Jr., Ben Schabinger, John Hott and Earl McCabe.

The old members who were not included in the new department are: John H. Smith, Sr., Ed Cordell, Ed Himmle, Carl King, Wm. Lehmkuhl, Sr., Wm. Lehmkuhl, Jr., Ben Schabinger, John Hott and Earl McCabe.

NEW DEPARTMENT
The new department consists of: F. R. Grothouse, Wm. Westrich, S. H. Wamhoff, Wm. Roth, Chas. Kimball, Ed Grothouse, John Kollsmith, John Lehmkuhl, Wm. Scherger, Gus Weger, Arthur Weger, Wm. Gladen. These men were formerly of the department. Wm. Scherger, Carl Imbers, and Edward Hoffman are new men. This totals 15 members, but including the chairman and chief, therefore, two men more to be appointed and it is not yet known who these men will be, according to Chief Grothouse.

Chief Grothouse is considering the idea of having an electrician on the force in order to detect dangerous places and other causes of fires from electricity. It is not decided upon, however, but the suggestion was favorably received.

It was decided that they have their regular meeting on the first Wednesday night of every month.

By-laws of the organization are incomplete and a committee consisting of Frank Grothouse, Gus Weger, N. H. Westrich, and S. H. Wamhoff, these men will draw up the by-laws and will submit them to Safety Director C. L. Laing, preceding their acceptance by the members of the department.

Enthusiasm marked the meeting, and it was evident that the whole department consists of live wires who will cooperate with the chief as well as the old members have done," said John Hott, Sr., and ex-treasurer of the department.

MOTORISTS WAITING FOR APRIL TAG PRICE CUT

DELPHOS — With 132 automobiles still on hand here, Elmer Smith, local registrar, expects to see a sharp drop in April at the beginning of the second quarter of the year. The price will drop 25 per cent. Most of those who have not previously licensed have their cars stored out of the way, and will wait until the drop in price, Steinle thinks. Analysis of all now using old tags indicates city authorities announcing that the tag price reduction and license fees will be in about ten days, and that the generating machine at the plant is helping supply power."

REPAIRS ARE UNDER WAY AT POWER SUB-STATION

DELPHOS — Representatives of the Edison Electric Co. are working at the power substation of the Northwestern Ohio Light Co. One of the generators is being repaired, and the other is taking care of overhauling the steam engine.

It would cripple the local plant if the connection with the main line at Kalia, was cut off, said Mr. Smith, Thursday. "The source of power is sufficient to carry the load, but the plant is finishing up, and will be in about ten days, and the generating machine at the plant is helping supply power."

ALL CLUES PROVE FUTILE IN HUNT FOR GIRL WHO DISAPPEARED AT DELPHOS

DELPHOS — Hope for the solution of the mysterious disappearance of Colleen Baughman, 17, from the home of relatives here New Year's day practically has been abandoned.

Mrs. Fred Baughman, W. Third-st., grandmother of the missing girl says she has received no word of encouragement from the girl's father, E. A. Baughman, Coraopolis, Pa.

Nor has any clue been received by Lima relatives whom the girl told her grandmother New Year's day she was going to visit.

All rumors so far advanced in regard to the girl have been run down in vain. One of these was that a diary had been found in which the girl had mentioned the date of a marriage to one Joseph Baughman, and that an orange blossom wedding ring had been found in her room, both of which reports were denied.

Authorities, it is said, still are looking for clues that will enable them to pick up a trail but at the same time are about ready to put the girl's case down among the many mysteries of unsolved disappearances.

SCHOOLS HOLD SERVICE IN HONOR OF WILSON

DELPHOS — Students of Delphos high school held the late president, Woodrow Wilson, at an assembly called by S. C. Warner, superintendent of schools, Wednesday afternoon.

A short program was given by both senior and junior high school representatives. Clayton Wolfe, senior, expounded the indebtedness of the American people to Wilson for the service he rendered during his term of office.

Harold Kemper, sophomore, discussed extemporaneously the contributions of Wilson to the history of the United States, and the work he did during the time he was president of Princeton University.

The proclamation of the governor was also read to the assembly, followed by an oral description of the funeral services. After due respect had been shown by the student body in general, they slowly filed out of the building shortly before 3:30 p. m., as the schools in Delphos were closed from that time for the balance of the day.

Cleveland Man Held by Police After Alleged Theft

Representing himself to be the promoter of a male "Follies" show, James Felton, 39, of Cleveland, is alleged to have victimized one store of $20.50 in merchandise and to have failed in the effort to victimize another, Wednesday afternoon.

Asking Mrs. Ludie Kinsely, manager of the Stork and Corset shop on W. North-st., to make up a number of articles of silk lingerie which were to be used to garb the members of the show he was going to put on in Detroit, he left the store and said he would return at 5:30 to pay for them. Mrs. Kinsely became suspicious of the apparent discrepancies in his story, and called police.

In the meantime, Felton had entered the Johnson Gift store next door, and while being shown goods in there, police allege, stole the merchandise, principally beads, mentioned above. Detective Inspector Kipker and James Morton of the Better Business Bureau questioned the man after Kipker had caught him.

Felton pleaded guilty to stealing $20.50 worth of jewelry from the Johnson Gift shop in criminal court Thursday. Judgment was reserved.

New Way to Relieve Rheumatic Pain Quickly, Discovered by Famous Italian Physicist
No Medicine to Take
Speedy Relief Guaranteed by Local Druggists

After exhaustive research into the cause and treatment of Rheumatism, science has at last discovered a safe, external treatment which has quickly relieved thousands of chronic sufferers from their torturing pain.

Alessandro Volta, the famous Italian physicist for whom the electric volt was named, has discovered a scientific combination of certain ingredients that produce a fine powder which, when shaken into the shoes, seems immediately to be absorbed into the blood through the myriad pores of the feet. This is due no doubt to the fact that the soles of the feet contain 10 times as many pores to the square inch as are found in other parts of the body.

He has called this powder VOLTALTA. The use of Volta powder has demonstrated such astonishing results in literally thousands of cases, many of which were considered hopeless, that the American distributors have authorized local druggists to dispense Volta to rheumatic sufferers in their city with an unqualified guarantee to return the full purchase price of the first box in any case where the rheumatic pains are not wonderfully relieved.

All who suffer from rheumatic pains, no matter how long standing, their case may be, should take immediate advantage of this liberal offer. You can get Volta powder with this guarantee from such good druggists as: Argonne Drug Store, Walden's Central Drug Store, Enterprise Drug Store, Green's Public Drug Store, Raymond's Drug Store, Hunter's Drug Store, Interurban Drug Store, Interurban Drug Store, Keltner's Drug Store, Marmon Bros. THIS IS THE FOURTH OF A SERIES OF TWELVE CREDIT EDUCATIONAL ADVERTISEMENTS THAT WILL APPEAR EVERY THURSDAY—BE SURE AND READ EVERY ONE

"The Responsibility of the Credit Grantor"

The Person Who Extends Time for Payment when Goods or Service is SOLD ON CREDIT is the GRANTOR of CREDIT

WHEN we say "Mr. Doctor," or "Mr. Merchant," "May I have it charged?" we are asking an accommodation or stating a request based upon necessity. In either case we are borrowing the equivalent of cash and are offering CHARACTER only as security.

THE Grantor's responsibility is to see that the borrowed money is returned at the time promised. We would have to do this to keep our credit good at the bank. (The Credit Grantor knows that the concern extending time as an accommodation loses money if an account is carried indefinitely). The Grantor knows that if an account is carried six months, which should have been paid in thirty days, the net loss is 2.6 per cent on each dollar's worth of merchandise or service rendered.

THE Grantor's further responsibility is to see that this loss is not sustained, because it would be unfair to persons appreciating accommodations and paying promptly.

THE further responsibility of the Credit Grantor is to find out if the extension of Credit would work a hardship on the purchaser and by that means destroy his good character by permitting the purchaser to obligate himself in a greater amount than he could pay in the given time.

THIS is the reason that the Credit Grantor, having such responsibility, must refuse credit to those who, by their actions, have proven themselves of POOR CHARACTER.

SCOUTING SEEN AS MORAL ASSET

Butcher Tells of Movement as Religious Trainer

BALANCED LIFE AIMED FOR

No Substitute for Church Intended, Says Executive

(BY JOSEPH M. BUTCHER)

Communities are awakening to a realization of a new and heretofore overlooked asset—youth—and are becoming conscious of this asset as being properly trained. Scout systems are being made over to serve a wider range of groups—individuals or small groups—requirements are being sought out and trained—not each one required to go through the same course of training.

I represent a great system of supplementary education—education for an all-around well balanced life, but I'm going to develop for you what I consider the foundation of the whole program—the religious educational phase of

I say that religious education is the foundation of scouting and I expect to show my reasons for that statement.

Not to use the scout oath: On my honor I will do my best.

1. To do my duty to God and my country and to obey the scout law.

2. To help other people at all times.

3. To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight.

And note also the 12th law. "A scout is reverent. He is reverent toward God—faithful in his religious duties and respects the convictions of others in the matters of custom and religion."

Please note that scouting does not attempt in any way to displace the church—any organization that makes that attempt is doomed to failure before it begins—the church is the most lasting and permanent institution in our civilization—but scouting does not mean the religious background in the character of boyhood upon which the church may lay its denominational color.

One child in nine is the national average that is getting any sort of religious training. Can we as a nation expect to grow in spiritual strength or to develop moral character with such a program of religious training?

There are between 3,000 and 3,500 boys between the ages of 11 and 16 in Lima. How many of these are being reached by some sort of religious training? I estimated the other day that not over 1,500 were reaching any such training and that figure included such programs as made any pretense at character development. That is the field of the church. What are you as a church doing?

I say to you without reservation that scouting under church auspices will turn the boyhood of this community toward the church and not away from it, that it binds the boy more closely to the church and affords helpful opportunities.

A scout troop affords a wonderful recruiting ground for church membership. I know personally of numbers of troops which under the leadership of virile men who were active examples of Christ's life, have been led into church membership and which have been the means of drawing many unchurched boys and in some cases whole families into church membership.

A character rises no higher than its ideals. The scout leader should be a clean man, having much leadership ability—with high ideals, physically, mentally, morally. He ought to be a successful man whom boys will look upon with respect.

Scouting aims to bring such a man into normal relationship with scouts at a time in their lives when they are most plastic and capable of receiving the deepest impressions.

In closing let me leave this thought with you. Work among and for boys has great responsibilities and proportionate rewards do not subordinate it to any other work in the church. It is as important as any and more than many another piece of work that the church is now doing.

Scouting may be adopted to the program of any church. I have used it in the lowest slums of the stockyards district and in the heart of the "millionaire" row. I have seen it working beautifully in the mining section of Kentucky and West Virginia and in the "model schools" of Columbus.

Religious education is better than reformation. It is wiser and more economical of social ills and tragedies and because of this the more efficient method.

A tree is known by its fruits. Scouting has been endorsed by Methodist Episcopal church (north and south), Baptist, Presbyterian, Catholic, United Lutheran, Congregational, Protestant Episcopal, Christian, Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, Religious Education Association of American Knights of Columbus, Jewish Welfare Board and many others.

The verdict of those who know it is scouting works and my plan is for you to let the program work for you in this church—send one or more will open this month, organize your troop committee, and then let the boys of the community know that you are ready for them and the results will more than repay.

WORTH OF BATTLESHIP IS SUBJECT OF DEBATE

LONDON — England has been interested in a debate as to whether the modern battleship has not been rendered obsolete by the airplane. Admiral Mark Kerr took the affirmative and Viscount Curzon the negative. The decision favored the arguments of Curzon.

The viscount contended that whether or not the present type of capital ship is obsolete depended on whether the battleship can be destroyed by under-water boats or by aircraft. Jutland proved that the bomb and torpedo have not gained ascendancy over the heavy gun. Gunfire has an accuracy far above that of the weapons of submarines or planes. Experiments purporting to show that the big ship is at the mercy of hovering planes have been carried out, but the target ship test was carried out in fair weather and perfect water. The battleship still remains the greater factor of naval strength.

Admiral Kerr's suggested large aircraft carrier. Viscount Curzon said "was just as vulnerable as the big battleship, which after all, could have its protective seaplanes."

SICK FLOCK TO HUNTER'S, THROUGHS HEALED BY PEPGEN, JAXON EXPLAINS NEW REMEDY

Another Lima Woman Receives Remarkable Benefit from Pepgen

Hunter's Drug Store, 49 Public Square, is now the mecca for all Lima people suffering with stomach, liver or kidney ailments. These people are taking advantage of the opportunity to talk with Walter Ellis Jaxon, who is now in Lima explaining the uses of his tonic to all who call to see him.

Among those who called on Mr. Jaxon recently, was Mrs. Ida Justice of 743 North Main Street.

Mrs. Justice says: "Pepgen has been of great benefit to me. I can truthfully recommend it as being a wonderful medicine."

"For the past twenty years I have been in poor health. I would have terrible pains across my shoulders and in my back. These pains would get so bad that I could not raise my arms."

"I was extremely nervous and at times was so depressed in spirits that I had a dread of the future."

"My food would sour in my stomach and cause me to bloat. Often at night I wouldn't hardly sleep at all, and when morning came I would be all tired out. No energy to do my housework."

"About four weeks ago I started taking Pepgen. It has been of great benefit to me. I sleep like now and I am not troubled with those pains in my back and shoulders. My stomach does not give me a bit of trouble."

The best part of it is that I feel so much more cheerful and do not worry like I used to.

"Pepgen has done me so much good that I am going to get my husband to take it. He is troubled with catarrh of the stomach and I think it would do him good."

In commenting upon this case, Mr. Jaxon, who is personally directing the introduction of Pepgen at Hunter's Drug Store on the Public Square said:

"People who are nervous and irritable have imperfect digestion and stomach disorders, lack energy and ambition, feel melancholy and discouraged, suffer with headaches, backache, unsound sleep, irregular circulation, anaemic conditions and who are susceptible to coughs and colds are usually affected with the same trouble."

"The principal mission of Pepgen is to correct that very trouble, and I leave the question with the public to judge if Pepgen is really fulfilling its mission."

The genuine Pepgen is packed in a white, blue and gold carton, and is obtainable in Lima only at The Hunter Drug Store, 49 Public Square, Main and Wayne Streets and The Argonne Store, opposite Post Office. Pepgen agencies in nearby towns are:

Ada, B. A. Park; Beaverdam, Frank Hutterling; Sidney's Drug Shop, Bluffton, S. E. Lewis, Columbus Grove, King & Stallcamp, Delphos, H. M. Lee, Kalida, Hector & Blue Ottawa; Fryer Drug Store, St. Marys; Hunter & Son, Wapakoneta.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children.

Ask for Children's Musterole.

FINGERS SWOLLEN BY RHEUMATISM

Twice Their Natural Size; She Says the Plant Juice Has Given Her Relief

PLANT JUICE GAVE RELIEF

"Your Plant Juice has done both my husband and I a world of good and we can conscientiously recommend it to the public as a splendid medicine," said Mrs. Rose Stager, of 226 Chestnut Street, Nulley, N. J., while talking recently with the Plant Juice Man. "Between us, my band and I have taken 10 bottles of Plant Juice, or five bottles apiece, and it has benefited us so much that we are feeling like two entirely different people.

"When I started taking Plant Juice I had no appetite and had to be very careful about what I ate. Besides this, my bowels were constipated, liver and kidneys were inactive and I was troubled with dizzy spells and black spots would float before my eyes. And also I was suffering badly from rheumatism. In fact, the joints of my fingers were swollen to almost twice their natural size. I did not sleep right; was weak and run down, had no energy and any exertion would just play me out."

"But I will say that the five bottles of Plant Juice I have taken have changed all of these conditions. My appetite has returned and I enjoy my meals. And my bowels are regular; liver and kidneys work fine and I do not have the biliousness, black spots before my eyes or dizziness any more. The rheumatic pains have left my hand and the swelling in the joints of the fingers is greatly reduced. In fact, the joints are almost normal. I sleep better; have more energy and ambition and feel stronger in general."

"And Plant Juice also did my husband a world of good. We both simply have the utmost confidence in Plant Juice and can conscientiously recommend it to any sufferer."

Plant Juice is sold in Lima at the Hunter drug stores, 49 Public Square and Main and Wayne streets and at the Argonne drug store, opposite Post Office.

Weak Blood Needs Iron

Says Doctor To Build Up Your Strength, Energy and Endurance.

WHEN you feel yourself slipping into a weak condition, it is because your blood is becoming thin, pale and watery, literally starving for want of iron. Says a physician, "Once you supply iron to proper form, a multitude of dangerous symptoms disappear. Iron is the red-blood food which satisfies iron hunger and works day and night to build up red corpuscles, repair wasted tissue, renew the vigor of your body and ward off germs of disease."

For years, in my own practice, I have prescribed iron. I have seen it cure weakness, nervousness, indigestion, loss of appetite, and all the symptoms of a weak blood. Iron is the only food that can build up the blood and make it strong and healthy. It is the only food that can build up the blood and make it strong and healthy. It is the only food that can build up the blood and make it strong and healthy.

Colonel Holles, soldier and adventurer, returns to England, the land of his birth, when war is declared with France. He comes to lodge with Martha Quinn, hostess of the Paul's Head, in King's Yard, London.

The colonel writes for an old friend, His Grace of Albemarle, whom he has not seen for ten years. Albemarle receives the colonel cordially and tells him that real soldiers are greatly needed in the English army.

He offers to be a colonel in the army and is warned by His Grace that the name of Randal Holles, father of the colonel, is on the warrant for the execution of the late king. Therefore it is dangerous to assume an army commission to the colonel. Albemarle asks Holles to take with him and Holles accepts.

Again he pauses, and again his tone changed, shedding its faint note of bitterness.

"I do not say these things—which I say for your ears alone here in private—to cause, or even to suggest, the actions of His Majesty. It is not a subject for mention to anybody the doing of his King, particularly when that King is a man concerned to avenge what he considers, rightly or wrongly, the murder of his father. I tell you all this solely that you may understand how, despite my ardent wish to help you, I dare not for fear of a mistake help you in the way you desire, lest, by bringing you, directly or indirectly, under His Majesty's notice, I should expose you to that vengeance which is not allowed to slumber. Your name is Randal Holles, and . . ."

"I could change my name," the Colonel cried, on a sudden inspiration and waited breathlessly, whilst Albemarle considered.

"There might still be some who knew you in the old days, who would be but ready to expose the deception."

"I'll take the risk of that," Holles laughed in his eagerness, in his reaction from the hopelessness that had been settling upon him during Albemarle's lengthy exposition.

"I've lived on risks,"

"The Duke eyed him gravely. "And?" he asked.

"You?"

"I should be a party to that deception."

For a long moment they faced each other thus, Holles striving to keep the despair from his face. Then slowly the Colonel sank back into his chair. A moment he brooded, his eyes upon the polished floor, then, with a little sigh, a little shrug, a little upward throw of his hands, he reached for the hat that lay on the floor beside him.

"In that case . . ."

He paused to swallow something that threatened to mar the steadiness of his voice. . . . it but remains for me to take my leave . . ."

"No, no," the Duke leaped forward and set a restraining hand upon his visitor's arm. "We part not thus, Randal."

Holles looked at him, still inwardly struggling to keep his self-control. He smiled a little, that sad irresistible smile of his. "You, sir, are a man overwhelmed with affairs; the burden of a state at war is on your shoulders, I . . ."

"None the less you shall stay to dine."

"To dine?" said Holles, wondering where and when he should dine next, for a disclosure of the state of his affairs must follow upon this failure to improve them, and the luxury of the Paul's Head could be his no longer.

"To dine, as you were bidden, and to renew acquaintance with her grace," Albemarle pushed back his chair, and rose. "She will be glad to see you, I know. Come, then. The dinner hour is overpast already."

Slowly, still hesitating, Holles rose. Yet in the end he yielded, not had occasion thereafter to regret it. Indeed, at the outset her grace's welcome of him warmed him.

The massive, gaudy, untidy woman stared at him as he was led by Albemarle into her presence. Then, slapping her thighs to mark her amazement, up she bounced, and came rolling toward him.

"As God's my life, it's Randal Holles!" she exclaimed. And hoisting herself on tiptoe by a grip of his shoulders she resoundingly kissed his cheek before he guessed her purpose. "It's lucky for George he's brought you to excuse his lateness," she added grinning. "Dinner's been standing this ten minutes, and cooking do spoil good meat. Come on. You shall tell me at table what good fortune brings you."

She linked an arm through one of his, and led him away to their frugal board, which Mr. Pepsy—who loved the good things of this world—has denounced as laden with dirty dishes and bad meat. It was certainly not dural, either in appearances or service. But then neither was its hostess, nor could any human power have made her so. To the Duke she was Nan Clarges, the farrier's daughter and the farrier's widow, the sempstress who had been Monk's mistress when he was a prisoner in the Tower some twenty years ago, and whom—in an evil hour, as was generally believed—he had subsequently married, to legitimize their children. She counted few friends in the great world in which her husband had his being, whilst those she may have counted in her former station had long since passed beyond her ken. Therefore did she treasure more dearly the few—the very few—whom she had honored with that name. And of these was Randal Holles. Because of his deep regard for Monk, and because of the easy good-nature that was his own, he had in the early days of Monk's marriage shown a proper regard for Monk's wife, treating with the deference due to her married station an unfortunate woman who was smarting under the undisguised contempt of the majority of her husband's friends and associates. She had cherished that deference and courtesy of Holles as only a woman in her situation could, and the memory of it was ineffably impressed upon her mind.

She pined him with questions all thru her noisy feeding, until she had drawn from him not only the condition of his fortunes, but the reason for his return to England, the hopes he had nourished, and her own husband's wrecking of those hopes. It put her in a rage.

"God's life!" she roared at her ducal lord and master. "You would ha' turned him like a beggar from the door? Him—Randal!"

His grace, the dauntless, honest George Monk, who all his life had trodden firmly the path of rectitude, who feared no man, not even the King whom he had made, lowered his proud, grave eyes before this temerarious angry glance.

"You see, my love, according to my lights . . ." he was beginning uneasily.

"Your lights quotha!" she shrieked in scorn. "Mighty dim lights they be, George, if you can't see to help a friend by them."

He smiled, gently, as if to show that he used gentleness from disinclination to assert his mastery. As best he could, seeing that he was subjected the while to a running fire of scornful interruptions, he made clear the situation as already he had made it clear to Holles.

"Lord, George!" she said, when he had finished, and her great red face was blank. "You are growing old. You are not the man you was. You, a kingmaker! La!" She withered him with her scorn. "Where are the wits that helped King Charles Stuart back to his own? You wasn't put off by the first obstacle in they days. What would ye be without me, I ask myself. It needs me to help ye see how ye can help a friend without bringing him under notice of them as might do him a hurt."

"If you can do that, my dear . . ."

"If I can? I'd ha' my brains fried for supper if I couldn't. I would so—damme! For 'tis all they'd be good for. Is there no commands in your bestowing but commands here at home?"

His eyebrows flickered up, as if something in his mind responded to her suggestion.

"Are there no colonies to this realm of England? What of the Indies—East and West? There's a mort' o' them Indies, I know, whither officers are forever being dispatched. Who'd trouble about Randal's name or story in one of they?"

"Egad! 'Tis an idea!" The Duke looked at Holles, his glance brightening. "What should you say to it, Randal?"

"Is there a post for me out there?" quoth the Colonel eagerly.

"At this very moment, no. But vacancies occur. There are risks, of course, and . . ."

Holles cut in briskly. "I have said that I have lived on risks. And I've little cause to be so wedded to the old world that I'd not exchange it for the new."

"Why, then, we'll see. A little patience, and it may be mine to offer you some place abroad."

"And if he doesn't send word soon do you come and see me again, Randal," said her grace; "we'll quicken him. He's well enough; but he's growing old, and his wits is sluggish."

And the great man, whose eyes had daunted armies, smiled benignly upon his termagant.

CHAPTER IV
Cherry Blossoms

Colonel Holles knelt on the window-seat at the open casement of his parlor at the Paul's Head. Leaning on the sill, he seemed to contemplate the little sunlit garden with its two cherry trees on which some of those belated blossoms lingered still. Cherry blossoms he was contemplating, but not those before him. The two trees of this little oasis in the City of London had multiplied themselves into a cherry orchard set in Devon and in the years that were gone beyond reclaiming.

Mrs. Quinn's few patches of garden had dissolved into an acre of sunlit flowering orchard. Above the trees in the background to the right a spire thrust up into the blue, surmounted by a weather-vane in the shape of a fish—which he vaguely knew to be an emblem of Christianity. Thru a gap on the left he beheld a wall, ivy-clad, crumbling at its summit. Over this a lad was climbing stealthily—a long-limbed, graceful, fair-haired stripling, whose features were recognizable for his own if from the latter you removed the haggard lines that the years and hard living had imprinted.

An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotions Revealed in Private Letters

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT, CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER

I wonder, little Marquis, so much about you. I wonder if life was so complicated in the day when you put your letters from your lover, the king, in this little secret drawer. Oh, I wish you had not destroyed them. That one letter to me, who found its secret hiding place inside the beautiful desk, told so much and so little.

I often smile to myself, little Marquis, when I sit here and write. I wonder what my mother-in-law would think if she had known that, reposing in this desk that she loved so much and which she gave to me as a wedding present, as a confession which told you were the sweetheart of a king.

In that dusty old house and listening to her old-world formula of business conduct makes me almost physically ill, yet I have told John I would go.

I had planned to leave tomorrow but last night Ruth came up as John was going out to a business dinner and told me all the gossip she had been hearing of Paula Perrier's personal appearance here. She said that people were saying Jack had had the billboard taken down because it advertised her coming. I knew better than this because I heard Jack tell a man of the plan by which the Acme Advertising Company hoped to get back at the billboard company.

"It doesn't make any difference," said Ruth, "if Jack is perfectly innocent in the matter. He is going to get the entire blame."

"Certainly, my dear, you cannot go away at this time," she added, "it will look as though you were jealous."

It was then, little Marquis, that I decided to tell you what I knew was the truth. I said to her, "Why should I be jealous of Jack? You do not know, Ruth, that the father of little Jack is Sydney Carton, and his mother is Paula Perrier. I have known that for a long time." "Die, Jack, tell you that?" asked Ruth quickly. "No, dear, but everything that he has told me confirms what I suspected."

Are you afraid, Leslie, that her letter—another quarrel over Miss Perrier will want her baby back, Ruth Ellington.

Willing to Tell All of Remarkable Recovery

People waiting to know what Tanlae would let them communicate with me. It was wonderful and brought me the very help I had longed for, is the precise statement made by Mrs. D. J. Prichard, 227 E. 116th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

"Nervousness, worry and sorrow turned my hair gray in less than two months. Numbing rheumatic pains in my knees, loss of appetite and nervous indigestion helped to reduce my weight and strength and I got so weak and depressed that I never felt like doing any of my housework. My appetite improved under the Tanlae treatment that I have actually gained thirty-two pounds. Now my nerves are steadied down so I sleep peacefully, and I certainly am thankful for the fine health I enjoy since taking Tanlae."
